Description:

Gay Miller is founder and Senior Business Advisor at MillerGleann Consulting. In her corporate life Gay built HR departments from the ground up in multiple countries where she contributed to the bottom line from both strategic and tactical roles. Now, her passion is organization and leadership development and her experience spans over 20 countries in the Americas and Pacific Regions.

MillerGleann has a unique organization perspective, which combines leading edge HR concepts and bottom line organization requirements. We believe leadership has the single largest impact on the success of any company. Unique methodologies and tools, that are designed or delivered by MillerGleann, are focused on strengthening leadership and organization capabilities. We partner with the Executive and HR Teams to identify and customize programs that will have the most impact for their organization. Sustainable culture development, training, strategic planning and leadership development – these are the things we love to do!
